The process

I look forward to hearing about your creative goals. I offer customized packages and work closely with you so that you can go from hook to resolutions.

The Hook: beginner workshops are for those who have ideas but haven't written a word. Together, we demystify the creative process and get story to page.

The Keep Up: Rewriting or reworking ideas for cohesion can feel daunting at times, so I will work with you to volley ideas and reawaken the fun in the creative process.

The End: When you have a draft and need some direction or perspective, I am here to provide developmental editing and prepping manuscripts for submission

WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING

“If you're serious about growing as a writer, you should certainly consider hiring Jen Knox as your writing coach. Think about it: there are few genuine resources for writers who struggle to conquer their shortcomings and improve their craft. Online articles typically consist of quick tips with no real depth or wisdom. Writing books provide plenty of general advice, but don't typically help to identify your specific writing issues, or provide clear steps to develop new approaches. College classes and writing groups suffer because members generally focus on improving their own work, rather than providing quality feedback on yours.

Though I hold a BA in Creative Writing and a minor in Playwriting from a reputable writing program, Jen's coaching has been a great resource for me.

Her no-nonsense approach, sage advice, thoughtful feedback, and considerable knowledge of all things writing has truly helped me exceed my writing goals. If you're ready to take your writing to the next step, I recommend giving her a call today.”
